Austrian Airlines has appointed Wolfgang Jani as its new chief financial officer, according to a statement from the company.

Jani's appointment follows an announcement in September by Heinz Lachinger that he intends to leave the company.

The 41-year-old Austrian will move from Schindler Deutschland to Austrian Airlines and assume the position of CFO effective 16 April 2018.

Wolfgang Jani began his professional career in 2000 as a controller for Schindler Austria, where he worked his way up to the position of CFO in 2007. In 2011, he continued with Schindler as vice president and CFO of Schindler USA, moving to Morristown, New Jersey. In 2013, he returned to Europe and was named CFO of Schindler Germany. He also assumed responsibility as area manager for the Baltics in 2017.
